ORDER FROM THE PRESIDENT.

The President today through the War Itepariment, issued general orders for the information of army officers, quoting provisions of the Constitution relative to the election of President and Vice President, and laws visiting with imprisonment military or naval officers intimidating such electors. The order is intended in part as a rehabet of Gen. Reynolds, who issued orders for hidding the citizens of Texas holding elections for electors. It will be recollected that the States of Virginia and Mississippi have not yet been recognized by Congress in the admission of their Senators and Representatives, and that Congress in July last passed an act in effect precluding the counting of 'near electoral votes.

We are at the golden gate of the great reservoir of wealth into which low the thousands and thous ands of drope, fountains, creeks and streams of the money-making community of Prussia. We are in the Prussian Bank.

A vaulted corridor leads us to the different departments of the great institution, in which alone, including its one hundred and thirty-eight branch establishments, more than four hundred officials are employed. At the head of these is the Bank President, at present Herr von Dechand Under him are four bank directors, a justiciary, the hook-keepers, cashiers, and chiefs of the different departments, the controllers, registers, clerks, and porters, forming altogether quite a little army of chite troupes. The same military spirit of accuracy and disciplined performance of duty, evenced in the whole administration of Prussia, is to be found here. A German financier once said "In Geldsachen hort die Gemuthlichkeit auf" (in money matters good nature is at an end.) Following this principle, the bank-president is most rigid in selecting his employes. An appointment is made only niter a close severet observation of the person, sometime before the nomination takes place, and it is only in extraordinary cases that in change is made. Hence the bank has the oldest officials, of whose faithfulness an idea can be formed from the fact that one chief of a department, during his whole service of twenty-five y-enrs. has taken leave of absence color only twenty-five days.

The same cauliousness and watchfulness in all the operations of the bank, and particularly in the counting of the cash and the keeping of the treasor. In a special room, to which no outsider has edmission, the money received is carefully counted, one official checking and troving another, so that errors are allust imposible. The pork packing season will open in this city to-day; not in full blast, as when all join in a gladsome flourish of trumpets, but quietly, as it were by steath. The impression has been general that the season would open much later this year than usual, on account of the reported fact that there is a dearth of fatted hogs in the contry. This is denied, however, by many dealers in hogs, allege that the impression above alluded to has heen fostered by interested parties for the purpose of keeping down prices. There is no reason to expect that packing will become general for some weeks to come, but it is certain that two houses, at least, will commence by Monday morning at furthest, they having hought about fifteen hundred bogs to-day at the Union Stock Yards.

The quality of the hegs now in market is much better than at the corresponding period last year, and those who are well posted claim that there will be a good crop, at least equal in numbers to that in flast year, and probably considerably in excess, though the shipments to date are about 1.0,000 more than to the corresponding period last year. But prices range much higher than in warranted by the increase in weight, being fully $1.75 per hundred more than in October last. This fact, it is though, will prevent the hunjing of hogs in large quantities for packing till the price is reduced, hut against this it must be remembered that mees pork ranges now $86.66.50 higher than twelve months ago, and that stocks are very light, bulk meats, too, are heing rapidly reduced, and will not, probably, suffer serious competition, as the better quanity of hogs will enable packers to put up a much larger proportion of meas pork than last season.

With the present ruling prices, there is stimulus enoughto make a portion of our operators commence, though, in course, with the risk of loss in case hegs "tumbe to the prices of last season, which, in view of the promised character of the apply, is mere than probable.

The Democratic Party in Ken-Much to be feared is a spirit of apathy on the part of the people of Kentucky during the little left of the Presidential here that our State is certain to go by a wast majority for Seymonr and Blair in we begin to fear, working mischief. Con dence in the integrity and natriotism of the people is all well enough when it is accompanied by an unconquerable deternotination to do our whole duly in the nours of trouble and danger. But, without his determination, confidence in the ancess of our cause is of very little use. Indeed, its influence is evil, rather than ood. It breeds a spirit of inactivity, t destroys every incentive to labor. And ction, at this time, should be the very Polonions they accept in common wi all other righteous people law of existence. It stands to reason and If we are listless and inactive here, the

Shall we disappoint them? No. Let us put on our armor and go to work in earnest. We must know no such thing as repose. We must be vigilant, active, and brave. Every man in the State has a duty to perform. He must not forget even for a moment the nature and importance of that duty. He owes it to himself, to others, to his country, and to posterily. He should feel that on his individual exertions depends very much and ready to capture it, one half of the the result of the coming contest-the troops that it readily gave afterward to failure or triumph of the principles of civil liberty. The radical party is thoroughly organized. Its speakers, its The American The Am

In short, this miserable party, fattened on the life-blood of the republic, was allowed to play and to carry thank Heaven, it succeeded in doing so by a reduced majority. The radicals at:

Virginia, Mississippi, and Texas are all by a reduced majority. The radicals attempted the same game in Oregon, in Colorado, and in Connecticut. But in these States a spirit of restless activity and nutring vigilance had been aroused in the ranks of the Democratic party. The lovers of law, of order, of liberty, and of independence determined not to be over-thrown and trampled upon any longer. Whenever and wherever a radical speaker appeared, a Democratic orator and statesman was found to meet him. When the election came on, the radicals, as unsual, tried to vote their imported birelings from to vote their imported hirelings from abroad. But they were sent back home. They were quietly told that the people could get along without their assistance. ont of payments made on account of the war, after it was ever; but here there is omitted the was table quent sales by the government of war materials, wer ves rels, captured and abandoned preparty, confiscated cotton, etc., tirst published in the late later of Mr. Delmar.

But my felter also gives the increase of the interest of the public debt from the but of November, 1861, to the 31st of August, 1868, being at the rate of thirty-six in liliens of deliars a year. Now the increased interest of the public debt from the 38th of April, 1868, we have seen was $50,000,000, telng at the rate of $15,000 to prevent and the sale of the sale of the public debt from the 38th was at the rate of $15,000 to a year. To this statement no snower is or can be given. Thus the rate of sommal inverse on the jubile cloth has increased year $22,60,000 within the last nine norths, as compared with the three years in at four mouths succeeding the 30th of April, 1865. It is clear, then, that the rate of increase of the sale and interest on the public debt has augmented and is augmenting at a fearful ratio, and, in the absence of a change of policy, accompanied by a vast decreases of expenditures, must render to the purpose of depreciating the national credit is moral reason; but to sho with a pice, with a view to save the nation

In response to a general call, Mayor Tempert addressed the Brotherhood for an hall hour or so. His speech abounded in good, practical suggestions, historic reminiscences of mana-sunny clime, happiny-drawn contrasts between the past and present conditions of politics and society in the land dis-covered by Columbus, and interspersad-his address with Hashes of wit and sentiment that set the tables aroar. The Status of Louisville. By a careful analysis, as we shall show herealter with more perticularity, the rise of real estata in Louisville has been ward at a joily round trot, and there is every reason to beliava it has only just begnn its npward conrae.

Onr reasons for this opinion are manifold. Ware makes ad unmake cities. So do raiiroads. Ten yeara ego Louisvilla bad a dozen rivais. Now practically she has but one. The war did a great deal for her, and every succeeding railroad en-terprise tends to increasing her wealth

And city never was a prosperous as this season. All the principal hueiness honses are doing famously. You can go nowhere in the husy quarters of the town without seeing indisputshla avidences of enterprise and encess. The trade of the city, like its real estate, is advancing. Confidence is general and capital abundant. We shall do a hundred per cent. Confidence is general and capital abundant. We shall do a hundred per cent more this year than we did last year.

One of the most substantial evidences of the truth of these statements is to be found in the number, variety and elegance of the dwellings which are going np on avery side. Most of the oid streets and ail of the streets newly opened bristls with stone and brick and morter

The whole of the city south of Broadway seems slive with hod-carriers.

What does all this mean? It means business. It means that this is a city on its way to a metropolis. It means that nothing can prevent it from becoming the commercial capital of the girdle of States which stretch southward from the head to the tail of the Ohio river. It means that we have a future which is taking care of itself no matter what we do ourelves to help it along.

But we can do much to help it along, and it does seem to ue that much of i depends upon our management of our real estate interests. That real estate is going up, and that it will continuate go up, is a fact that most men concede. A great deal of it is now owned in largebodice by rich men. When it is cut up bodies by rich men. When it is cut up into lots and is owned by poor men its increase of value will be greater and the progress of tha city will be greater. Rich men are good institutions certainly, but sometimes they impede the onward march of communities. We purpose throwing out some hints of a practical and economical nature which have occurred to us concerning our prosperity as a community. We wish to keep our status constantly before the people. We wish to keep it hefore our own peopla and before the Southern peopls. It is impossible for the process. The many friends of the Rev. Mr. Paracocs, of this city, will be gratified to learn that his health is improving, and that he is now considered out of danger from the severe attack of paralysis with which he has been sflicted for soma time past. It is sincerely to be hoped that this mighty champion of the Christian religion may be spared to na many years to battle for the noble cause in which he is ergaged.

The many friends of the Rev. Mr. Paracocs, of the man would be prospected and hilarity of the crowd. The Italian is the power status constantly before the poor the copin and before the Southern people. We wish to keep it hefore our own at any capital and the stirring procedes were made by Signor C. Armabold, President of the Italian Convence in the latting proceder is husiness and its prospects. States were represented by delegation.

There are no merchants in the world who have done eo much in ao short a time with such scenty means. But they are no longer peor and cramped. They are well-to-do, active, progressive, and confident. An immense infusion of young blood was immense infusion of young blood was experienced after the war, and it has shown for itself. It is still throbbing in our commercial veins and will still produce results. But of this anon. The objicta of these remarks is to call attention to the extraordinary evidences of life now manifest everywhere about us and to point them out to the people tar and near as one guarantees for present welfare and tuture apiendor. THE CELEBRATION, One of the distinguishing objects of the italian Brotherhood is the perpetu-anniversary of that proud achievement as their holiday. The occasion was cele-brated by the Brotherhood for the second time yesterday; and no one who watched the proceedings could doubt that there was deep felt sincerity and enthusiastic ardo In the whola affair. Owing to the near approach of the election and other canses, the Cincinnati Brotherhood were unable to attend, but they sent some of their best men ss representatives. This reduced the numerical force of the display, but it in owiss detracted from the esprit d'corps members of the Brotherhood, all tidily dressed, and wearing the beoutiful pu
